(MDO16: THE HALLS OF HELLFIRE)

deep within the rocky deserts or the south, it was always seen as hallowed ground and was revered by the many nomadic clans that travelled those deep deserts. Indeed it was once seen by all as neutral ground, and often used to settle disputes, enjoy celebrations and trade between themselves, but is now shunned. However, several dozen years ago, the Halls were used by the exiled sorcerer Mennu the Betrayer to summon an unnamed demon as old as time itself; in the process Mennu lost control, his life and his soul, and the demon furiously razed the remnants of the fortress to the Abyss. All that was left were underground chambers, for creatures that thrive on the site.

The site, although finely crafted, searing heat of the desert and evil creatures - all drawn to once appeared here, making itself. If the PCs make it into continual protection from g and strengthening its occupancy complex is an individual of Twilight.

3 THE STOREROOM

Protected behind a lockable heavy wooden door (break DC25, Disable Device check DC25), this chamber contains both essential stores and tribute bought to Corla. It is here that a significant quantity of Corla's wealth may be found; approximately 6000gp of treasure, broken down at the DM's discretion.

Treasure Example: The Storeroom

4 THE THRONEROOM

Protected behind a lockable heavy wooden door (break DC25, Disable Device check DC25), Corla's chamber sat on a marble throne. She welcomed guests from outside and plotted her schemes. Corla, a lamia matriarch, but she will use herself as a beautiful individual aligned group or religion. Using her charm and manipulation skills, she attempts to manipulate some of her subjects, or corrupting their nefarious activity on her behalf. Corla's true form and attack the combat skills, she is permanent. Corla's assistant, Caldera, who is a master entertainer and acts as her advisor. The two of them together are a CR11 encounter (including the protection from good spell that remains in force).
